

Frits Bussemaker, CIONET Partner, Founding Top Global Leader

Frits Bussemaker works in the international IT industry since the 80s. He is Partner with CIONET, a European network of over 4000 CIOs and IT leaders. He represents CIONET at the European Commission. He is the founder and chair of iPoort (www.ipoort.nl), an association linking the Dutch parliament to relevant stakeholders from the Dutch ICT community (Government, private companies and ICT associations). He has set up a number of successful associations in Information Technology and sits on the board of advice of a number of (academic) institutions.

He sat on the program board of numerous conferences around Europe including Program Director of the international WCIT2010 conference (www.wcit2010.org), member of the Steering Committee of IFIPs WCC2012 conference (www.wcc-2012.org) and TEDx Rijkswaterstaat & Bloemendaal.

Frits is a regular speaker and chairman on international conferences (from Amsterdam to Lisbon to Sydney). Recurring theme in his work is the shift from a "Command-and-Control" to a "Connect-and-Collaborate" world, i.e. how we can "organize value". He regularly publishes articles and columns in a number of magazines, blogs and books. He has a passion for connecting people & ideas, serendipity and cooking.

For an up to date profile, see <http://nl.linkedin.com/pub/frits-bussemaker/0/125/260>